Which is the purpose of the Cisco NAC Profiler?

A. Automates discovery and inventory of all LAN attached devices

B. Generates a profile based on username and group

C. Learns and creates a database of virus definitions based on LAN traffic

D. A database used to map user VPN accounts

Correct Answer: A

Cisco NAC Profiler: Enables network administrators to keep a real-time, contextual inventory of all devices in a network. It greatly facilitates the deployment and management of Cisco Network Admission Control (NAC) systems by discovering and tracking the location and type of all LAN-attached endpoints, including those that are not capable of authenticating. It also uses the information about the device to determine the correct policies for NAC to apply.
