QUESTION 1

The 8th stage of Erik Erikson's psychosocial model occurs in late adulthood, usually 60 years of age or older. Some people in this life cycle begin to experience a sense of mortality, thinking back upon their lives and coming to terms with their choices. Others will see the wrong choices they made and feel life is too short to make any changes. What is the name of this life stage?

- A. Ego integrity versus despair
- B. Intimacy versus isolation
- C. Generativity versus self-absorption
- D. Identity versus role confusion

Correct Answer: A

Older adults who are satisfied with their life's accomplishments have a sense of integrity. Those who realize integrity was not achieved, feel the outcome of despair which can cause bitterness and hopelessness. The elderly population at this stage of "ego integrity versus despair" reaches an understanding of the reality that death is close. They can have a positive or negative outlook, but must accept their lives as coming to an end.

QUESTION 2

The first interactive relationship of an infant's life is the emotional attachment with a caregiver. This nonverbal experience determines how an individual will relate to other people throughout their life. A successful attachment gives one the ability to find happiness in being with others and maintain an emotional balance. If this connection is unsuccessful, there may be a failure to shape future intimate relationships. Children who become unable to attach to their caregiver are often diagnosed with which of the following?

- A. Reactive Attachment Disorder
- B. Conduct Disorder
- C. Failure to Thrive
- D. Attachment Conduct Disorder

Correct Answer: A

Children who become unable to attach to their caregiver are often diagnosed with an attachment disorder like RAD. The ability to shape all future relationships is based on the first emotional attachment with a mother or caregiver. Mothers who respond to their infant's needs create a sense of security. The strong basis of an attachment bond enables the child to be trusting, self-confident, and comfortable in the face of conflict. In cases where children's lives are disrupted at an early stage, such as being placed in a series of different foster homes, these children are at risk for being unable to form a bond with a caregiver, as they have no consistent caregiver in their lives.

QUESTION 3

Clinical social workers demonstrate responsibility towards clients, colleagues, practice settings, and to the social work profession. Professionals within this setting are accountable for staff and their ability to follow the codes set forth for ethical behavior. Which of the following would be considered a violation?

- A. Transferring a case to another colleague with more expertise
- B. Searching outside of the agency for clients' needs
- C. Sharing a client's information outside the agency without the client's consent
- D. Sharing information with a colleague to secure services

Correct Answer: C

There should be exchange of information outside the agency without a capable client's written consent. The only exception to this rule is when contact, such as with the police, prevents imminent danger. Clinical social workers need to be knowledgeable of client confidentiality and consent for services.

QUESTION 4

Phillip is a 24-year-old male who has been in prison on four different occasions. His criminal record includes domestic assault on a girlfriend, stealing a car, setting fire to an abandoned warehouse and drug use. Phillip's acts were not premeditated, and he claims to have little control over his actions. What disorder might a clinical social worker set out to treat?

- A. Anger management
- B. Destructive personality disorder
- C. Impulse control disorder
- D. Lack of self-esteem

Correct Answer: C

Phillip suffers from impulse control disorder. This problem is defined as a failure to resist spontaneous acts or behaviors that may be detrimental to self or others. The actions are not considered in advance and may include gambling, violence, sexual misconduct, stealing and self-abusive behavior.

QUESTION 5

Madison is aware of a fellow colleague with a drug abuse problem. Until recently, it did not appear to be affecting job performance. Now the colleague is missing work and failing to meet with clients as required. Madison does not want to get her fellow worker in trouble and feels someone else will eventually notice the problem. How else could this be handled?

- A. Surprise drug testing at the workplace
- B. Tell another colleague about the problem
- C. Tell a supervisor immediately
- D. Talk to the colleague having a problem

Correct Answer: D

Madison should first talk to her coworker with the drug abuse problem. Clinical social workers are professionals in many fields, and this should also fall into place with their own colleagues. If there is direct knowledge of a fellow worker's impairment, that individual should first be consulted and assisted in taking action.
