QUESTION 1

During which phase of the nursing process does data get collected and validated with the patient and/or family members by the nurse?

- A. The implementation phase.
- B. The assessment phase.
- C. The evaluation phase.
- D. The planning phase.

Correct Answer: B

Subjective, objective, primary and secondary data is collected and validated with the patient and/or family members by the nurse during the assessment phase of the nursing process. The implementation phase is the actual care of the patient; the evaluation phase includes the comparison of current data to expected outcomes to determine if the patient has achieved the pre-established goals and the planning phase consists of priority setting and care planning.

QUESTION 3

A twenty-one-year-old man suffered a concussion and the MD ordered a MRI. The patient asks, "Will they allow me to sit up during the MRI?"

The correct response by the nurse should be _____.

- A. "I will have to talk to the doctor about letting you sit upright during the test."
- B. "You will be positioned in the reverse Trendelenburg position to maximize the view of the brain."
- C. "The radiologist will let you know."
- D. "You will have to lie down on your back during the test."

---

Correct Answer: D

The MRI will require supine positioning.

QUESTION 4

The nurse assesses a client for physiological risk factors for falls.

The nurse should conclude that the client is not at risk if which of the following is discovered?

- A. history of dizziness
- B. need for wheelchair due to reduced mobility
- C. weakness and fatigue noted when climbing stairs
- D. intact recent and remote memory

Correct Answer: D

Intact recent and remote memory indicates that a client is not at risk for falls.

Risk for falls can occur in elder clients, and the nurse should assess each client for the possibility of falls and take appropriate actions.

QUESTION 5

Which of the following clients should refrain from therapy with the thiazide diuretic hydrochlorothiazide (HCTZ)?

- A. a client with renal impairment
- B. a client with hypertension
- C. a client with diabetes mellitus, type II
- D. a client with renal calculi (kidney stones)

Correct Answer: C

The thiazide class of diuretics cause metabolic abnormalities such as elevated blood glucose levels. This elevation is caused in part by diuretic-induced potassium deficiency.

Hypokalemia reduces the secretion of insulin by pancreatic beta cells, thereby increasing plasma glucose levels.

Thiazides have been used for many years in clients with the conditions described in choices "a client with renal impairment" and "a client with hypertension".

Thiazides decrease calcium excretion, thus decreasing the likelihood of renal calculi.
